Grey Marquina

Prestigious residential development features exquisite Stone of London surfaces

Architectural interior design studio Gordon-Duff & Linton specified three stunning surfaces fabricated and installed by Stone of London for an elegant residential development featuring a penthouse suite.

The modern multi-room project features Grey Marquina (20mm) in the penthouse kitchens and bar areas, with Ice White quartz (20mm) as worktops combined with Carrara Marble (20mm) full-height splashbacks in the residential properties.

A beautiful and striking surface, Grey Marquina Marble features exquisite white veining combined with a dark, warm-grey base. It offers a spectacular beauty to the stylish penthouse kitchens and bar areas, and because marble is a natural igneous stone, the veining and colours are completely unique. Grey Marquina Marble also has practical advantages, in that the material stays naturally cool and is not a big heat conductor... perfect for baking! The marble also offers a high level of heat resistance.

The Ice White quartz offers a clean, fresh and architectural look to the kitchens in the residential developments. It blends seamlessly with the cabinetry and kitchen interior. Practically, quartz is an excellent choice for the kitchen worktop areas. It is completely non-porous and highly resistant to scratches and stains, meaning it will withstand the demands of modern life with ease. Visually, the Carrara Marble splashbacks add depth and texture to the clean lines of the kitchen and enhance the feeling of luxury in these modern apartments.

Stone of London were chosen to carry out the templating, fabrication and installation of the spectacular surfaces for this elegant residential project. The Stone of London team has experience of sourcing, fabricating and installing a large range of stone surfaces and tiles, whether marble, granite or quartz. Kitchen worktops is just one area of specialism, Stone of London are experienced residential and commercial fabricators having completed numerous project types.

Gordon-Duff & Linton create bespoke interiors that are truly tailor-made and individual, which complement and are sympathetic to the fabric of the buildings they work on.

Having worked with Stone of London on several occasions, we have found them consistently dependable. They have always delivered excellent workmanship and results which are important to give the finishing touch of a project.
